WAUPACA AREA
COMMUNITY FOUNDATION

A Message from Board Chair Stephen Johnson

Your generosity to the Waupaca Area Community Foundation (WACF) has had long-term effects on our community. The mission of the Foundation to preserve and improve the quality of life for the people of the greater Waupaca area remains. Your support has been critical to the existence of many programs that serve our neighbors and our communities. The Foundation truly impacts the lives and futures of many individuals and our community.

Many of us know individuals and families whose physical or emotional health has been impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic. Numerous people in our area have had their financial wellbeing upended by the loss of a job or other financial challenges during this unprecedented time. The WACF grant guidelines have traditionally accepted applications for projects and programs in the areas of arts and culture, community development, education, environment, and health and human services. Due to the pandemic, our 2020 annual competitive grant guidelines were amended to include programs benefiting residents of the Waupaca area to respond specifically to the COVID-19 crisis, including sustaining critical mission-based work that has been financially impacted by the pandemic.

In addition, the COVID-19 Community Response Fund, established by the Community Foundation for the Fox Valley Region and United Way Fox Cities, has provided assistance to residents of Waupaca County through organizations such as Senior Meals Program, Foundations for Living, Mission of Hope House, Feeding America, Options for Independent Living and CAP Services. And the obligation to our community continues.

This assistance the WACF makes to organizations is possible only through your support and generosity. It is with a grateful heart that we offer a sincere thank you for your participation and the impact you make on our community. Your support allows the Foundation to continue the mission to preserve and improve the quality of life for the people of the greater Waupaca area.

Stephen Johnson

On behalf of the
WACF Board

Showers, laundry facilities installed

Foundations for Living, a local, independent nonprofit, has one overriding goal: helping people in the Waupaca area find a better life. While many Waupaca County residents live quite affluent lives, according to the USA Census Bureau, over 11 percent of Waupaca's population live below the poverty line. Helping people navigate life in this "hidden face of poverty" is what Foundations for Living is all about.

One of Foundations for Living's many services is their overnight emergency warming center. Thanks to a $7,500 grant from The Waupaca Community Foundation, a handicapped accessible shower and laundry facility were installed last fall. "Often people come to us after living for days in their cars," said Wilma Akright, executive director. "Making it possible for our guests to shower and wash their clothes has been life changing for many. Not only has our warming center become a healthier, more pleasant environment but the ability to stay clean has helped a number of our guests to find jobs and make other critical first steps toward independent living."

Foundations for Living exists to assist anyone who desires to make positive changes toward independence. "We aren't here to give handouts but rather hand-ups," Akright said. "Clients find us through referrals from private and public social services as well as word of mouth. Whether someone is living on the street or just needing encouragement, we try to meet people where they're at. Taking time to discover underlying issues and to meet the most critical needs (such as food, clothes, hygiene items, temporary housing and emotional support) are the first steps. Once immediate needs are met, we offer job counseling, referrals, life coaching, supportive housing and classes in topics such as financial budgeting, and change."

In 2019 alone, over 2,600 clients received assistance through Foundations for Living.

New Invasive Species Partnership

Invasive species are a problem that can have economic, recreational, and environmental impacts. Golden Sands RC&D's aquatic invasive species program has served Waupaca County for more than a decade.

In order to expand their efforts, Golden Sands sought to develop a regional group focused on building partnerships to monitor and control invasive plants in the water and on land throughout Waupaca County. A $1,500 grant from the Waupaca Area Community Foundation supported their initiative to develop a cooperative invasive species group for the Fox Valley area including Waupaca County.

A meeting gathered stakeholder input and was attended by 37 people, including landowners, volunteers, and staff from DNR, counties, and nature centers. Attendees decided on a name for the group: Northeast Wisconsin Invasive Species Coalition (NEWISC).

Using stakeholder input, two grant applications were submitted to continue group development. A $40,000 grant was secured from the US Forest Service to begin invasive plant monitoring and control efforts. As NEWISC grows, the group plans to provide educational resources to landowners and volunteers about management of invasive plants. Controlling these species will improve wildlife habitat and enhance natural areas throughout Waupaca County.

Grant helps EmpowHer

The EmpowHER Program is a collaborative program with the Women's Fund for the Fox Valley Region and Fox Valley Technical College. EmpowHER is intended to move young women from poverty to independence and help them see the opportunities and potential that exist beyond their current circumstances. The goal is to break the cycle of poverty by helping women identify what is holding them back and plan for their future by encouraging post-secondary education as a pathway to economic security. Through a $7,500 grant from the Waupaca Area Community Foundation, the EmpowHER program expanded to serve for young women in Waupaca.

Prior to this program Beth was unsure about her future goals, but she was an eager participant with a positive attitude. Beth and the other young women in the program learned about support systems in the Waupaca community, healthy relationships, career aptitudes, and financial wellness. After the program, Beth designed a budget, bought a car, enrolled at FVTC and is excited to be in charge of her future. Beth says that EmpowHER gave her the confidence to enroll in the Human Services program at FVTC. "I feel prepared for college. I am more confident I can do it because of the help I can get and the skill and resources I learned about through this program."

Living the Waupaca Way

The Community Garden – ThedaCare location is located on the ThedaCare campus in Waupaca. This is the second season that Living the Waupaca Way is working with the community garden. The garden is managed by Lindsey Pietrzak and staffed by many volunteers. The grant monies allowed us to purchase supplies, tools, equipment and storage space helping us reach our goal to put fresh produce into the hands and mouths of members of the Waupaca community. To do this, the garden partners with and distributes produce to the Waupaca Area Food Pantry, the Bread Basket and the Senior Nutrition Center.

Things at the garden have been busy this season. To date, a new shed has been built and four raised garden beds have been added to the plot (making it easier for volunteers to help out). In addition, Lindsey, the garden manager, held a virtual education event in partnership with Sunny Day Childcare. Tomato plants, pots and soil were purchased and provided to Sunny Day so they can grow their own tomatoes. The virtual education event involved a demonstration on how to plant and care for the tomatoes to get a bountiful harvest.

There are over 30 different varieties of plants in the garden, including greens, various vegetables, herbs and fruit. Over 40 pounds of rhubarb has already been donated to the Waupaca Area Food Pantry this year. In the coming weeks Food Pantry deliveries will include lettuce, spinach and edible flowers. Volunteers are always welcome at the garden, located at 913 Riverside Dr. Waupaca. If you'd like to follow updates throughout the season, please visit their facebook page, Waupaca Community Garden – ThedaCare Location.
