

The Robert and Amy Sanders Experienced Student Scholarship

Bob and Amy were raised in working-class homes and began their work lives at a young age. In his early twenties, Bob owned a successful business that was destroyed by fire and forced him to reconsider the next stage of his life. By her early twenties, Amy was working in an administrative assistant role with little chance for advancement. At these pivotal points, both made the decision to return to school and begin again.

Making the decision to expand their education as adults with experience in the working world enabled them to start a new course and was the foundation for successful careers. Bob became an IT consultant and Amy a manager at a financial services company.

Knowing the impact that education as adults had on their lives, they were inspired to assist others who are at a similar point-of-change in their lives to obtain the education they need to pursue their own new ambitions; either to begin a new career or advance in their current line of work.
